Plans are in the works to pave two more miles of the Fox River Trail.

The 25-mile long trail runs from Green Bay to Hilbert. Currently, it's only paved for six of those miles, between downtown Green Bay and Hertigae Road, south of De Pere. The rest is crushed limestone.

This month, Brown County plans to pave an extra mile, from Heritage to Rockland Road.

The "Friends of the Fox River Trail" say they plan to raise money to pave an additional mile south of Rockland Road.

A kick-off to the "Pave-A-Mile" campaign was held Sunday in De Pere.

The groups president says the trails increased popularity, with more than 100,000 users a year, makes it necessary to pave additional sections.

The project is expected to cost $62,000.

People who want to donate can purchase a linear yard of asphalt for $75.

And donors who buy two or more yards will have their name engraved on a special commemorative bricks.

If someone would like to buy a foot, it'll cost $50. One inch of paved surface costs $5.

Everyone who helps gets a gift.

To donate send a check, payable to the "Friends of the Fox River," to:
